Dear University Leadership Team,

Greetings from Green Mentors.

As higher education institutions across North America navigate a period of profound transformation — shaped by climate disruption, demographic shifts, financial pressures, technological acceleration, workforce realignment, and evolving public expectations — the role of universities as catalysts for resilient, inclusive, and future-ready societies has never been more important.

The higher education sector is currently confronting significant challenges, including declining enrollment projections, rising operational costs, funding uncertainties, AI-driven disruption, mental health concerns, and increasing pressure to demonstrate societal relevance, workforce readiness, and sustainable impact.

At the same time, these challenges present a historic opportunity for reinvention through innovation, collaboration, and regenerative leadership.

In this spirit, Green Mentors warmly invites your institution to participate in the 10th NYC Green School Conference 2026, taking place during Climate Week NYC on September 23–24, 2026, in New York City.

Celebrating a Decade of Greening Education, the conference brings together global educators, university leaders, policymakers, sustainability experts, researchers, innovators, youth leaders, UN institutions, ESG practitioners, and climate advocates to advance climate-smart, AI-enabled, and regenerative education systems for a thriving planet.

As part of this landmark edition, we are honored to invite your university to nominate one or more distinguished leaders from your institution to join the Global Advisory Council of the 10th NYC Green School Conference 2026.

The Global Advisory Council is being established as a diverse, internationally representative leadership platform dedicated to providing strategic guidance, global thought leadership, and collaborative direction for advancing regenerative education, climate leadership, sustainability innovation, and international cooperation.

Advisory Priorities Include:

- Climate-smart education systems
- AI-enabled inclusive learning
- Global sustainability partnerships
- Youth empowerment and leadership
- Regenerative development strategies
- SDG acceleration and policy innovation
- Green workforce and future skills development
- International cooperation for education transformation

We welcome nominations from:

- University Presidents
- Provosts & Academic Leaders
- Sustainability & ESG Directors
- AI, Climate & Innovation Leaders
- Distinguished Professors & Researchers
- Global Development & Policy Experts
- Youth Leadership Advocates

Participation in the Global Advisory Council offers opportunities to:

- Contribute to international dialogue on the future of education and sustainability
- Collaborate with global universities, UN institutions, policymakers, and climate leaders
- Support the advancement of climate-smart and regenerative learning systems
- Strengthen institutional visibility and global engagement during Climate Week NYC
- Participate in strategic partnerships, innovation forums, and policy conversations shaping future-ready education systems

We believe universities have a critical role in shaping resilient, equitable, and sustainable futures for people and the planet. Through collective leadership and international collaboration, we can help accelerate transformative solutions that empower learners, strengthen communities, and advance global sustainability goals.
